

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES ASSOCIATE IN SCIENCE

ADMISSIONS GUIDE

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

St Petersburg College's Emergency Medical Services Associate in Science Degree gives you a liberal arts education to enrich your medical background. If you have completed EMT and Paramedic certification, this degree provides the perfect way to advance in your career field.

Florida Licensed Paramedics who have completed EMT, Paramedic, or both programs at St Petersburg College are eligible for our Emergency Medical Services A.S. degree.

Students pursuing the Emergency Medical Services A.S. Degree must complete at least one of the EMT or Paramedic programs at SPC and satisfactorily complete 25 percent of the semester hours (minimum of 19 credits) required for graduation at St. Petersburg College.

Students with an active EMT license or who completed their EMT or Paramedic program(s) at a qualifying institution in the Florida College System or one of Florida's District Postsecondary Institutions may be eligible to receive free articulated credit towards the Emergency Medical Services A.S. degree program at SPC.

For more information, please visit our articulations catalog at this link.

Admission to the Emergency Medical Services A.S. degree program must be completed before articulated credit can be awarded.

The program will accept and review applications throughout the year for the next available term.
